

BECKER says "Cleveland is an angel of light compared with Blaine."

Judge Holt will enter upon his duties on the appellate bench next Monday.

CONGRESSMAN LAMB, of Indiana, says Democratic prospects in that State are exceedingly bright.

According to "Gath" ninety percent. of the German vote of New York City will be cast for Cleveland.

At a "grand rally" of Irish Independents in New York City about one hundred men were present, including lookers-on.

EX-CONGRESSMAN THADDEUS C. POND, a leading Republican of Wisconsin, has left the G. O. P. and declared for Cleveland.

EX-CONGRESSMAN McKinley, of Ohio believes the Republican National committee should look more after Ohio than West Virginia.

HENDRICKS does not think the Cleveland scandal will have any weight with the people, but that they will judge Cleveland solely by his public record.

HON. THADDEUS C. POND, of Wisconsin, who lately declared against Blaine, was elected as a Republican to the Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth Congress and was a delegate to the Republican National Convention, at Philadelphia, in 1872.

A line of steamers between Savannah, Ga., and English and French ports, will be established early this fall. The vessels will run in connection with the new through line from Cincinnati to the seaboard by way of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railway. The enterprise is expected to greatly advance the commercial interests of the Southern States.

The party in power is a minority party, and has been for a long time. The popular vote at the last two Presidential elections and the State elections of 1882 was as follows:

	Republican, Dem. & G. W. P.	Prohibition, & G. W. P.
1876	233,729	107,270
1880	453,417	479,339
1882	419,949	438,728

In 1876 and 1880 there were 300,000 more anti-Republicans than Republicans, and in 1882 the number had increased to 700,000.

Malaria—What is it?

The recent appearance of malarial fevers of a deadly character in regions unvisited by them since their first settlement, as in various parts of New England, New York and Pennsylvania, which, of late years, have been abandoned for the same cause; places, too, where families have lived for generations in perfect freedom from every form of malarial fever. Dr. Cradell holds that malaria is caused by a living organism—the schizomeres bacillus—whose successive generations accumulate in the soil; which is developed by concurrence of certain physical conditions; and which, when vitalized and absorbed into the human system, attacks and destroys the red globules of the blood. He names three conditions that are indispensable for its production; a continued temperature above sixty-seven and a half degrees (F.); a very moderate degree of permanent moisture of the soil, and the direct action of the oxygen of the air upon the malarious state of earth. If a single one of these conditions be wanting, the development of malaria is impossible.

A Bug in His Ear.

Macdon (Glas) Telegraph.
The other night one of those snapper-bugs flew in at the open window and lit on the ear of a gentleman who was asleep. The bug entered the ear and commenced his snapping and tearing at the delicate lining of the ear with his claws. The snapping sounded like the beating of a thousand sledge-hammers, and the clawing caused almost insupportable pain. The bug was too fat to be pulled out by the fingers, and the gentle ear was tried in vain to get it out with a needle and a hair-pin. At last he resolved to go to a doctor, and while the doctor was waiting, he lay on his back, and the bug crawled out backward with the blood oozing from the ear.

WHO WANTS A CORPSE?

An Alleged Baron Wants to Give His Body to Some Medical Student.
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 30.—An elderly man of venerable appearance and a career of experience carried the clerk in the office of the Daily Home News this evening by handing over the counter the following advertisement, with a request to have it published to-morrow:

MEDICAL STUDENT. Desires of a subject in the near future to be accommodated by a dissection of B. Potatoes. Conditions: Body must be delivered to him in the future.

After perusing it carefully and seeing that the old gentleman, who is generally known as Baron von Wirth, was in earnest, the clerk ventured to ask where the corpse was. Baron—That need not concern you. In a very few days the purchaser can obtain it.

Baron—Do I understand you to say that you can deliver a body for purpose of dissection? Baron—Yes. The body will be forthcoming in the near future.

Clerk—May I inquire whose body it is? Baron—You may. It is my own. I have only a short time to live, and have decided to transfer my body to a medical college in the interests of science.

Clerk—Have you any reason for believing that your body will be of special interest to the medical profession? Baron—There is no occasion for me to enter into particulars, but I want no money for my body, but simply desire to stipulate that I shall be decently buried and not be placed in a pauper's grave.

Clerk—What is your belief as to a future state? Baron—That question is more easily asked than answered. I expect to go to rest the same as those who have gone before me with whom I have been brought up, which was in the good old Dutch Church.

In answer to further questions the Baron said he was born in Potsdam, New York, lived in Sumnerville nine years, and in this State and New York, and died in New York, twenty-three years. All his friends had deserted him, even his son, and the old man brushed away a tear. He had not always been poor, and came, he said, from a race of German barons. His grandfather fought in the Revolutionary war and he, the youngest of a family of nine, all of whom have passed away. Peter M. Bayard, his only cousin, died in New York aged ninety-three years. He was proprietor of the Battery House when Lafayette landed in 1824. His three brothers bore arms for New York State for seven years and were very good citizens.

Work, he said, was refused him because he was drunk. He joined the Salvation Army recently, and when ordered to vote on the question of a campaign the word must first be blood, and he left the army. He was now an outcast, without money or friends, and had determined to dispose of his body—the only thing left him.

WHEAT CROP OF 1884.

Total Yield 25,000,000 Bushels More Than Ever Produced Before.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 30.—W. W. Talmadge presents the following figures as the final estimate of the wheat crop of the United States for 1884. The figures are based on official reports made within a few days by State agricultural departments and statistical agencies of the different States and Territories. The report shows the total production of winter wheat to be 25,000,000 bushels, and spring wheat 150,000,000 bushels. This makes the total yield of the country 175,000,000 bushels more than ever produced, 130,000,000 more than last year's crop, and 80,000,000 more than the average crop for the past five years.

The departments all agree in reporting the quality superior, and where it has been threshed they say the yield has more than that of any other year, and especially to the spring wheat sections of Iowa, Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota and Wisconsin. The quality of spring wheat was never better. The spring wheat harvest has been the best the weather has been most favorable, and grain is being carried off in excellent condition.

MATAMOROS, Mex., Aug. 30.—It is understood that Governor Cuellar, of this State (Tamaulipas), will be appointed Minister of War instead of General Narvaiz, who goes as Governor to the State of Nueva Leon.

A number of important changes in Federal offices throughout Northern Mexico are on the point of being made.

Each contestant thought his own horse would go better if run toward home, and each wanted to begin the race at the other ends of the track. Several hundred people witnessed the dispute.
